

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

CAPTAIN EVITA L. ARMSTRONG

Capt Evita Armstrong is the Recruiting Officer, Education Officer, and Assistant Professor of Aerospace Studies of Air Force ROTC Detachment 015 located at Tuskegee University, Alabama. She leads a cadre of officers and enlisted members responsible for recruiting, educating, training, and motivating officer candidates for the United States Air Force.

Capt Armstrong enlisted in the United States Air Force in December 2009. She completed the basic signals and analysis course in July 2010 and served as a Signals Intelligence Analyst until December 2015, when she commissioned from Officer Training School. She then completed intelligence officer training in July of 2016 and has held a variety of intelligence positions related to analysis and signals intelligence. Capt Armstrong has supported various exercises and has deployed in support of Operation Enduring Freedom, where she served as a Document and Media Exploitation analyst. Prior to her current position, the Capt was the Flight Commander of Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance Operations, at the 94th Intelligence Squadron, at Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland.
