COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES CAMPAIGN FUNDING PRIORITIES

Academic Excellence and Workforce Preparation | Goal $15 million

A strong, multidisciplinary community brings together the best minds to solve the world's most complex problems. From reducing bias in artificial intelligence to controlling high rates of vascular disease in Black populations to creating art, film, digital arts, and music that celebrate cultural heritage, the College of Arts and Sciences is Tuskegee University's largest college, providing every student with a foundational education. We are the Tuskegee Experience.

To stay at the forefront of academic excellence, we need to invest in the future. Your philanthropy is essential to help our university earn the prestigious Carnegie Foundation R2 designation that signifies a deep commitment to research spending and training of doctoral students. Please consider a gift today to support:

- The Center for Genomics and Health Disparity Research and Carver Research Center, to grow research expertise in breast cancer, prostate cancer, diabetes, obesity, and other health disparities that disproportionately affect rural and Black populations
- Faculty excellence for professional development, salary parity, and experiential opportunities
- The digital arts, film, music, theater, and visual arts programs to foster creative expression and student engagement
- A new Center for the Ethics of AI and Cultural Understanding and a Center for Bioethics to improve public health options

- Growth in Medical and Law School Prep Programs, purposeful, meaningful internship opportunities, and stackable credentials that promote workforce development.

Campus Re-envisioning and Revitalization | Goal $6.2 million

The College of Arts and Sciences supports Tuskegee University's other colleges by providing core academic coursework. As their programs have grown, so has our need for additional space and upgrades to classrooms, interdisciplinary studios, and labs. Through The Campaign for Tuskegee University, we envision new facilities designed for teaching and research with a focus on engineering, natural sciences, and biomedical research. Join us as we re-envision and revitalize our campus, while building your legacy with Tuskegee University.

Sustainability and Scholarships | Goal $2.5 million

The cost of attending college continues to be one of the most significant stressors leading to poor student mental health and withdrawal considerations. Philanthropy can reduce this heavy burden. An endowment dedicated to student scholarships will provide need-based aid and merit-based scholarships to attract the nation's top students. Every dollar makes a difference as we strive to reduce student debt and improve outcomes.

PUTTING STUDENTS FIRST

The Tuskegee Experience has always been about more than stellar academics. It reflects our collective heritage, community, and commitment. It is part of our past, and the key to our future.

To ensure the success of our students, faculty, and larger community, we must invest—wisely, strategically, ambitiously—and with the same bold vision Booker T. Washington used when founding our Mother Tuskegee. Please join us as we shape the future of higher education by making a gift to The Campaign for Tuskegee University.

By directing your gifts to the College of Arts and Sciences, you will be providing meaningful support that can change the world.
